

San Clemente Cove Chronicle

August 2014

There is so much going on at San Clemente Cove that I don't know where to begin!

The best place, I believe, is with you, our Owners. Your positive feedback and compliments placed The Cove among the leaders within Grand Pacific Resorts for the second quarter. Your recognition of our commitment to excellence is truly appreciated, as The Cove stands tall and proud in this competition against larger resorts. One of my favorite compliments is from a smiling Owner who told me, "The resort looks better every time I visit!"

As part of our continued commitment, we have successfully completed the painting of all units and new artwork has been added to the rooms. The changes are remarkable and your board members have told me they are also hearing many positive comments.

Another Cove specialty is Shannon's activities program. She is now dedicating an entire morning and afternoon just to tie-dye to keep up with the demand for this popular activity. She says other popular favorites are the shell bracelet classes and the ceramic and wood painting sessions. It is gratifying to see you take home so many beautiful memories of your vacation time here at The Cove.

Did you know that August in San Clemente typically features 13 hours of sunlight each day? It is a time to get out and enjoy the ocean, the water, the sun. This is why we continue to work with Dana Wharf Sportfishing to offer half-off discounts on whale-watching trips any day of the week. Dana Wharf is also graciously donating various prizes that are raffled off by Shannon at the Monday Welcome Breakfast (another great reason to attend!). Now is the time of the blue whale migration and there are reports of whale sightings on nearly every trip. Plus we have had so many people tell us about their up-close and personal experiences with the dolphin pods numbering in the hundreds that escorted their trip at sea.

This month in San Clemente ...

If you are visiting The Cove on Aug. 28, you might want to take in the free beach concert hosted by the City of San Clemente. With the setting sun as your backdrop, listen to the reggae band Common Sense.

You can step back in history by taking a quick trip up the coast to San Juan Capistrano. From 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. the second Saturday of each month, the Mission hosts its "Living History Day." Dedicated volunteers dress the role to entertain adults and children while sharing the history of the characters they portray. The event is free with Mission entrance.

See you at The Cove!
